Footballers Organize For 1939

Joe Emmerson, President;
David Smith, Secretary;
Large Attendance.

A large number of footballers met in the Grand Union on Sunday afternoon to organize for 1939. The officers of two years ago gave the meeting a statement of the club's finances, which showed the club approximately sixty dollars in the red.

Officers elected for this season were Joe Emmerson, president; Ray Spillars, vice-president; David Smith, secretary; J. Park, J. Anderson and A. Balloch, executive.

A survey of the football field revealed that it would be practically impossible to put it in shape for this season. The McGillivray company has offered the club a strip of land near their tipple, which could be quickly put in shape, and it was decided to accept the offer.

Means of raising funds were discussed, and a plan decided on so that the club can function properly throughout the summer.

Games on the Crows' Nest Pass Golf course commenced on March 22, the course being in excellent shape, and it is anticipated renewed interest and enthusiasm will be aroused in the activities this year. The annual meeting will be held April 8, April 8, W. L. Rippon, secretary, of which due notice will be given to members.

FINE PERFORMANCES OF "THE GYPSY TROUBADOUR"

The operetta, "The Gypsy Troubadour," presented by students of the intermediate classes and Grade X, was a highly creditable production, and was well attended on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights of last week. Particularly effective was the setting and the costumes, for which great credit is due to all who were responsible. A detailed report of those taking part was published last week. Congratulations aplenty are due to the young people and those who had charge of the production, costumes, stage settings, etc.

The musical numbers were directed by James Cousins; dramatics, Miss E. Wilson; dancing, Principal David Hoy; stage manager, Mr. G. Allan; Miss Edna Fairhurst and Miss K. Milley; scenery, Steve Ondrus and Joe Zezula; make-up, Mrs. E. Reid; business manager, J. McDonald; pianist, Olwen Brown.

B. C. EDITORS PLAN ANNUAL CONVENTION

The annual convention of the B. C. Division of the Canadian Women's newspapers Association has been set for Friday and Saturday, September 29 and 30. It will be held at the Hotel Vancouver.

HEAD OF POWER COMPANY

LORNE A. CAMPBELL

President of International and McGillivray Coal Companies, and president and managing director of West Kootenay Power and Light Co. Ltd., was appointed to the latter executive position on the death of the former president, James J. Warren. Mr. Campbell presided last week at the annual meetings in Coleman of the two coal companies.

To Mr. Campbell's wide experience in the field of electrical engineering is due full credit for most of the power development projects in British Columbia, running into millions of dollars in construction costs.

The retiring officers left a substantial balance in the bank, and plans will get under way within the next few days for getting the coursing in shape as quickly as possible. Several members have already played games during the past week.

Harry Brown Played Havoc With Sweeps

Smilin' Harry Brown during the recent Lethbridge-Kimberley hockey series has been both blessed and cursed by sweepstake addicts. Sweepstakes on the series have averaged on hundred dollars or more. On Thursday and Saturday the score had been 3-2 until the last minute, when Brown has very conveniently scored, to make the result 4-2 on both occasions. If Harry only knew the nerve-racking experience of holding a 3-2 score with $100 hanging in the balance until one minute from time, and then have someone score to blow that $100 higher than a kite, he wouldn't do such things.

Saturday's game was a heart-breaker to whoever held the 3-2 score—it is reported it was Fred Emery, of the Motordrome. One minute remained when Coach Freddie Metcalf took out goalie Andy Young and sent six forwards on the ice. Young was no sooner off when Brown scored from centre ice. One hundred and thirty-nine dollars sprouted wings, flew away from the outstretched fingers of Fred Emery and landed in the lap of Ray Dunlop, who held the 4-2 score.

CURLING, FOOTBALL AND BASEBALL CLUBS TO DISCUSS MEANS OF RAISING FUNDS

The bug-bear that faces all local sports organizations—lack of finance—will be given serious attention this week end by three local sports clubs—curling, football and baseball.

It is the intention of the officers of these organizations to discuss the problem of curling, so that sufficient funds can be raised to enable the club to function smoothly through the summer. The curling club, of course, could make good use of its share in the winter.

Activity already being manifest by football and baseball teams in various towns in the Pass, plans will have to be rung into gear to encourage the interest within the next five or six weeks, so that the local clubs will have sufficient finances to provide equipment and meet travelling expenses.

Allegations Against E.I.D. and E. L. Gray May Prove "Terrific Boomerang" For S. C. Government

Edmonton, March 27—Political attention is fixed this week on the Eastern Irrigation District at Brooks, as the result of allegations made public recently in the legislature by Premier William Aberhart.

He issued a statement talking about "irregularities" in the administration of the district, but did not mention the character of those "irregularities." He did not name any person responsible, but referred to "the manager" of the irrigation project, and particularly "the manager," he alleged, would know that the manager, responsible for the end of this month under plans announced many weeks ago, is E. L. Gray, M. L. A., who happens to be leader of the Liberal party in the province.

And Mr. Gray resigned from the E. L. D. position in order to devote his full time to the Liberal leadership, with a provincial election coming near.

ASKS $15,000 DAMAGES AGAINST ABERHART AND MANNING

who states that Premier Aberhart is playing "dirty politics" in alleging serious irregularities in connection with the Eastern Irrigation District of which Mr. Gray was manager till he resigned to assume the provincial Liberal leadership.

As this week opened there still had been no official hint of the nature of "irregularities" the premier talked about. The matter came up in the legislature only through questions addressed to the government, and through the demand of Liberal members of the house that the government should be compelled to investigate the affairs of the irrigation district.

Of all the irrigation projects in the province, the E.I.D. alone is an outstanding success, and it has become one since Mr. Gray resigned from his position as deputy minister of municipal and rural affairs, a department created in 1934. It has a bank balance of $500,000; a large proportion of the shareholder-farmers in the area now own their properties.

The premier did not issue his statement to newspapers until Mr. Gray was away from Edmonton, visiting Brooks as guest of honor at a dinner before the opening of the legislature. In his absence, other Liberal members of the house declared the government's move to be just "dirty politics," and declared that the government also wanted to get its hands on the big bank balance.

RENEWALS ALWAYS WELCOMED

Renewal subscription is acknowledged by Mr. G. A. Vassar, former general manager of West Canadian Collieries Limited. Since his resignation from that company, he has been successfully engaged in designing and supervising the installation of improved triple machinery and cleaning plants at various mines in the Dominion.

VANCOUVER HOTEL WILL FALL TO WRECKERS

Old Hotel Vancouver, is likely to be abandoned to the wreckers in the near future, it was indicated following a conference between Mayor Telford and C. W. McBain, C.P.R. land agent, and the Vancouver Sun.

The mayor said after the meeting that he can see no hope of utilizing the structure as a museum, library and civic centre.

He asserted his discussions with Mr. McBain had led him to believe it would be financially impossible to build the building for any purpose due to the high cost of taxation and maintenance. Under an agreement with the C.N.R. the building can not be used as a hotel.—Cranbrook Courier.

At Brooks, farmers condemned the charges and the dismissal of the E. I. D. board of trustees in favor of an administrator appointed by the government. Everything in the administration of the district was satisfactory to them, they said.

Observers in Edmonton said that unless the premier is able to justify the charges, he will be held responsible for the "irregularities" in the administration of the irrigation project, and particularly "the manager," he alleged, would know that the manager, responsible for the end of this month under plans announced many weeks ago, is E. L. Gray, M. L. A., who happens to be leader of the Liberal party in the province.

Meantime, a provincial election this summer is being rumored as more and more likely. Observers here see in many developments the laying of a trap for Mr. Gray to appear at the polls at Aberhart and his following within the next few months, at some time before the federal election is held.

The annual report of the province's Social Credit board was made public at the end of last week. That report revealed that the Social Credit party had done by the board for which the legislature, since the 1937 insurrection, has voted more than $200,000 addition to other heavy votes for "credit houses" and "marketing boards" affiliated with the Social Credit committee.

"The essential fact is that the people of the province now possess the means whereby they can take the initiative in acquiring control of credit policy by carrying out their economic program through institutions under effective control," the report proclaimed.

But lest any elector and taxpayer think that, with that happy state achieved, the work of the board is finished, no more need be done by it and for its members will be necessary, the report gave warning of a big plot to centralize authority in the dominion, in a scheme which "not only will dispossess of Alberta, but will entrench the financial interests in an even stronger position than they now occupy."

The treasury branches, or "credit houses" of which there are now 13 in the province, have provided the means of giving the people control of their own credit, said the report. The monetary system, as explained offhand, is more than an elaborate bookkeeping system for recording production and distribution of goods and services, and this could be achieved without the use of money as such just with the "credit house."

Cyrus observed that the board went quiet a long time in finally admitting that the monetary system does depend on goods and services, rather than on mere fountain pens. And they also observed that the chartered banks, those "credit houses" could not be operating at all, even in their own small field. It is the chartered banks' co-operation given as requested by the government, that enables the 13 of you to carry on between those who deal with the "credit houses" and those who do not. The Social Credit board's report said that only 3,000 of the merchants in the province have agreed to accept the vouchers.

THE PREVENTION OF SLEEPING SICKNESS IN HORSES

Equine encephalomyelitis or sleeping sickness in horses is one of the most serious horse diseases that has ever appeared in western Canada. The province of Alberta was fortunate in escaping this disease until the summer of 1937, when outbreaks had occurred in Manitoba and Saskatchewan during 1937 and 1938. Alberta has, therefore, the benefit of the experience gained in combating the disease in those provinces.

Information for the prevention of equine encephalomyelitis will be gladly furnished. Enquiries should be addressed to the provincial veterinarian, Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

Senility And Happiness

How to attain a ripe old age and how to be happy though old are twin questions which have assumed greater and more widespread importance in Western Canada during the past 15 or 20 years.

Up to about that time the Canadian west was essentially a young man's country for, in the main, the west lured young men who were hardy enough to fare abroad and carve out a home for themselves in a new country and what might be termed old men and women constituted a comparatively small proportion of the population.

And about 1910, not long ago as 15 or 20 years ago the problem of old age and how to make the best of it was one which was not of great importance in the west, for it was a comparatively simple matter then to dispose of the farm or the small town business and move to a more congenial climate to spend the declining years in more leisurely pursuits than wresting a living at high tension.

For very many who had visions of spending the evening of their life under such apparently ideal conditions, these prospects have receded into a dim remoteness as the depression of the past decade overtook the land and deepened with the passing years. As a result there are today many who have had to abandon these dreams and are facing the necessity of living out their allotted span where they built their homes and raised their families on the prairies.

For these increasingly large number of pioneers and first generation progeny of original settlers the question, therefore, has resolved itself into that of so ordering their method of living that they will have a reasonable chance of reaching a ripe old age, and its corollary, that of making the declining years a period of happiness and contentment, insofar as environment and conditions will permit.

Intelligence Needed

While the solution to these problems must be determined for each individual by himself or herself there are certain rules of conduct which must be followed if the desired goal is to be reached. Experience and experimentation, aided by science, have revealed that health is the touchstone which alone, barring accidents, will ensure old age, and which is also an essential to happiness in the last years of life, and superimposed upon health, is the mental attitude with which the era of the serene and yellow-faced.

"Longevity is partly dependent upon heredity—that is a well established fact. It is equally dependent on environment," as was pointed out about a year ago by Dr. C. F. Martin, of Montreal, in an excellent address on the subject of approach to old age in the Eaton auditorium in Toronto.

"And," he added, "as we become more intelligent, we can multiply health measures for our benefit. We can look after our diets more intelligently, our functional activities, our exercises and rest, and we can get much from a better knowledge of a properly conducted mental hygiene. With the accumulation of medical knowledge, the doors of opportunity are opened wide."

For the benefit of the aged, Dr. Martin pointed out the necessity of reducing the quantity of food taken, the importance of eating slowly. That was stressed as the first and most important dietary rule for the old, and the second is the kind of diet, and on this subject the few simple directions laid down are worth repeating in Dr. Martin's own words:

"You know already that meats are for the young and starches for the old; that cereals are good, stewed fruits and salads useful and bread still remains the staff of life; that any of the dairy products are the finest old-age food; that milk, preferably pasteurized has all the elements needed; that cream cheese is better than Stilton; and that butter, buttermilk and junket are useful. For old people hard-boiled eggs are about as digestible as clay pigeons."

The foregoing diet formula completely vanquishes the argument that the farm is not the place for the aged. It will be noted that all the foods mentioned as particularly suitable for the old are products of the farm and the orchard and the best of them, except some of the fruits, are available, or should be on every prairie farm.

Attainment Possible

While exercise, both physical and mental, are essential to a healthy and enjoyable old age, moderation should be the watchword insofar as physical education is concerned. There should be a slowing up of all activities which might be placed in the category of violent exercise, and exercise should be commensurate with the diet.

And mentally there should not be stagnation with advancing years. As Dr. Martin aptly said: "Idleness to the brain means loss of the joy of living, and then one really begins to feel old, and will say to himself 'every day, in every way, I'm getting older, older and older.'

"There is a contagionous, too, about old age, a physiological contagionous, which spreads from one old disgruntled person to another, and for that reason it is particularly desirable that old people mix more with the young."

These guides to old age are not new. They have been said before by many authorities and observers, but they are well worth remembering and following if old age is to be, as it should, an era of happiness and a period full of the joy of life. It is an attainment well within the realm of possibility if the simple rules are followed.

Sir Henry Pellatt Built Church For Toronto's Colored People

Toronto's older colored people remember with gratitude Sir Henry Pellatt, who died recently. During the days of his prosperity he was visited by a colored church elder who asked for a subscription to help build a church.

"How much will it cost?" asked Sir Henry.

The elder mentioned a few thousand dollars as the cost.

Sir Henry promptly wrote him a cheque for the full amount.

Later in life he was wont to recall with pleasure the look of astonished joy that lit up the face of the earnest church member when he realized the amount of the subscription.

How Business Is Created

Live Merchants Must Put Forth Effort To Secure Trade

It is true that business does not come as easily as it did in year past, says the Amherstburg, Ont., Echo.

People are not spending as they did, and when they do spend they like to get the full value of their dollar and are determined to make it go as far as it will. How is business created?

In the old days folks dealt pretty much week in and week out with the same merchant. Those days are past. People are shopping to-day and looking for values, and as a result those businesses which progress are those which are finding new avenues to bring business to their stores. Do you realize that the live business man of to-day is required to put forth greater effort and to concentrate more than ever if he is to secure trade?

A New Energizer

Claim Made That Concoction Of Gelatine Increases Endurance

A new drink that makes men strong was announced at the Long Island College of Medicine.

The drink is about one-third of a cupful daily of ordinary dry gelatine dissolved in orange and lemon juice. Results: six men doubled their running distance in about a month and a half training at bicycle riding. G. women there was no effect. The announcement was made by Dr. G. R. Ray, J. R. Johnson and M. M. Taylor.

It is planned to try gelatine on football players and other athletes in training. The gain in strength in the tests lasted a long time and no bad effects have been found. The substance is glycine, an amino acid also called gelatine sugar. It has been used on athletes. Thus Dr. R. M. Wilder reported to the Mayo clinic his tennis game improved after two weeks of taking glycine.

The men, who made the tests, spent three weeks with no gelatine, training daily at bicycle riding, until fatigued. In this period their endurance rose to 25 per cent. Then they added the drink—two glasses, each of which contained half of the gelatine ration—and endurance took a spectacular jump.

Experiments showed the orange and lemon juice had no part in the drink.

Four women who tried the same drink, with two-thirds as much daily gelatine, showed no benefits. Unlike the male, feminine muscles cannot store up creatine, an amino acid, natural in the body, whose reaction with phosphoric acid forms the "grease" that makes muscles contract easily. Glycine causes increased storage of creatine in muscles.

BOILED KETTLE WITH OLD CRUTCHES

Once Used Them Because Of Rheumatism

He was not strong either—he was weak and couldn't walk. He would not need his crutches again. Writing of his experience, he says:

"For five years I suffered terribly from rheumatism. I had to give up my job as a carpenter. I had a meal without my food repeating to me. One day an old friend told me, 'You must have a trial. Premier Mussolini Delivers Strong Speech On Fascist Policy

Rome. Premier Mussolini, in a militant speech stressing force as the key of Fascist policy, publicly affirmed that Italy's colonial problem with France is her claims on Tunisia, Djibouti and the Suez canal. Pacing, cheering blackshirt forces at the celebration of the 20th anniversary of the founding of the first Fascist combat squad, Il Duce for the first time put the official stamp on the clamor for a Mediterranean readjustment raised in the now-ex-empt chamber of deputies last Nov. 30.

He rejected suggestions he said had been made that Italy take the first step toward solution of the long-smoldering issue and put the next move up to France.

Mussolini proclaimed his Fascist foreign policy in five points:

1. Although Italy considers long peace necessary for European civilization, she refuses "solicitations" to take the first step toward peace until her "sacred rights" are recognized.

2. Italy adheres to the axis with Germany, threatening attack if a democratic coalition is formed against the authoritarian states.

3. Italy has colonial problems with France in Tunisia, Djibouti and the Suez canal of which Paris was informed in a note last Dec. 17.

4. Italy considers her interests predominant in both the Mediterranean and Adriatic seas but does not exclude other theaters.

5. Italy's belligerent force governs international relations must arm herself with more guns, ships and planes even at cost of completely militarizing the country.

Four hours after Mussolini had spoken, the government divulg'd both a congratulatory telegram Reichsfuehrer Hitler sent and Mussolini's answer.

Why Hitler's message had been withheld from publication earlier remained a mystery. In some informed quarters it was thought Mussolini might have wanted to subordinate it to his speech in order to avoid any suggestion Hitler inspired Fascist policy.

The fuhrer's telegram, decrying the German people were faced with the same fate as the Italians and "stand shoulder to shoulder with the battle-worn Italian nation in defense against all hateful and incomprehensible attempts to restrict the justified will for living of our two people and to shake the peace of the world."

Canadian Exports

United States Was Best Customer During Month Of February

Ottawa. The United States was Canada's best customer in February, exports to that country amounting to $23,761,322 compared with $17,307,782 in February, 1938. The Dominion bureau of statistics reported Canada's total domestic exports in February were $61,727,338 against $60,155,402.

The United Kingdom was the second best purchaser, taking $22,804,819 worth against $27,344,537.

Australia was third with $2,617,645 against $2,429,608; $2,081,377 and New Zealand fifth with $1,308,117 against $951,845.

Expect A General Election In Britain To Be Held This Fall

London. Belief a general election will be held in the autumn was strengthened by a disclosure Prime Minister Chamberlain has written the Conservative party central council making an urgent appeal for funds.

The prime minister's letter, contained in the council's annual report, said:

"I can assure you that more substantial and larger sums are urgently required both in the country and at the central office. If we are to carry out the desire of the party as expressed in the (Conservative) conference resolution, and if we are to ensure a safe majority, there will probably be one of the most vital elections which has ever been held in the history of this country."

Mr. Chamberlain made no reference to any date for the election.

Indicates General Selection

Definite Plans Of Government Suggested By Finance Minister

Ottawa. Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of finance, indicated in the House of Commons the government definitely is planning a general election this year.

The suggestion was made as Mr. Dunning spoke in the debate on the Canada-United States trade treaty in connection with free entry of vegetable oils.

Replying to opposition criticism that the government was holding up a report on the subject prepared by the tariff board, the finance minister said:

"Apart from a minister of grounds which should actuate a minister of agriculture, I ask even on low political grounds whether any honorable member thinks for a moment that I wish to give honorable gentlemen opposite another New Zealand butter issue just prior to an election. Even on low political grounds I would naturally be anxious to have a solution if one is possible."

Mr. Dunning was referring to the Liberal claim that one cause of the party's defeat in the 1930 general election was the fact New Zealand butter flooded the Canadian market.

Escaped To Yugoslavia

Shoe King Of Czechoslovakia Wanted To Evade Nazis

Toronto. The Czechoslovakian consul here announced he had received word that Jan Bata, Czech shoe king and reputed to be the greatest shoe manufacturer in the world, had flown his plane to Yugoslavia to escape the Nazis.

The consul was advised Mr. Bata escaped without taking his wife and nephew.

German seizure of the vast Bata factories marks collapse of one of the world's greatest industrial experiments. At Zlin, in the heart of Moravia, the Bata built a model city where rent was 55 cents a week, meals 15 cents each, and wages three times as high as in any other place in Czechoslovakia.

All houses were built by the company and sold to employees. A bath and a garden. On the walls of the Bata factories, where 46,000 men labored, were painted the words: "A culture is measured by its bathrooms."

Western Agriculture

Must Regain Lost Markets For Wheat In Order To Survive

Brandon, Man. Western agriculture would retrograde to the level of pauperism if Canada did not regain her lost markets for wheat, Premier John Bracken of Manitoba told members of the Brandon board of trade.

The premier declared agriculture must not be denied the right to adequate adjustments to meet the emergencies it is called upon to face.

"If secondary industries are to be based in Canada by tariff laws to the detriment of primary industries, the latter are entitled to equal compensation if equity is to be maintained," he said.

Huge Gold Shipments

Consignments Sent To United States For Safe Keeping

London. With the British government's plan for an anti-aggression pact bogged down through Poland's hesitation to participate, Prime Minister Chamberlain was being urged to do two things:

1. Form a cabinet representative of all the political parties.

2. Introduce some form of compulsory military service.

There was no official comment on Romania's trade treaty with Germany but it would seem to make it extremely difficult, if not impossible, for King Carol to join a mutual defense bloc against Hitler.

The agreement will not stop the British trade mission to Romania, announced earlier in the month by the government. It was learned King Carol urged his mission to go to Britain when he was in London last November but the government could not make up its mind until a few days ago. Meanwhile the German mission got there first.

The largest single cargo of gold ever shipped out of Great Britain left for New York aboard the United States liner Manhattan, which carried about $56,160,000 in gold consigned to the United States because of European tension.

The shipment included $51,180,000 sent from Britain and $4,680,000 loaded at Le Havre, France. Other consignments are to be sent on the Normandie.

It was estimated conservatively that $93,600,000, including the Manhattan's cargo, will be shipped to the United States for this summer, within the next few days. Some quarters said the shipments might total twice that figure.

Will Defend Neutrality

Scandinavian Nations To Safeguard Themselves In Case Of War

Stockholm, Sweden. — The determination of the Scandinavian nations to defend their neutrality, independence and liberty was reiterated by Foreign Minister Rickard Sandler in a speech to the riksdag defending the decision to remilitarize the strategic Aland islands.

Plans for limited remilitarization of the Aland islands, which lie in the eastern Baltic between Sweden and Finland, were agreed upon in January between those two countries.

The military measures decided, said Sandler, will permit safeguarding the islands' neutrality in case of war. Sweden and Finland have pledged themselves to reject any intervention of a belligerent power to "protect" the islands, he added.

Fight For Italy

Germany Prepared To Support Italy In Fight For Rights

Frankfurt, Germany. — The Frankfurt Foreign Office declared that Germany is prepared to fight for Italy's "vital rights" and if Fascist demands in the Mediterranean lead to war Nazism "will be found on Italy's side from the first hour."

The newspaper, speaking out the most firmly for Italy of any organ in the controlled Nazis press, vigorously denied foreign reports of cooling Italian-German relations.

The newspaper said: "We hope the moral and political appeal which Italy directs to France and the world will direct henceforth with increasing force and which we Germans support in every respect, will not be ineffective."

Tariff Protection On Motor Cars Subject Of Debate In House

Ottawa. — Tariff protection high enough to have maintained profitably the small car manufacturing companies which have left Canada in recent years would enable "the big three" manufacturers to make profits "out of all reason," Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of finance, told the House of Commons.

The debate on motor cars occupied the last two afternoons in committee of ways and means during consideration of the automobile item in the Canada-United States trade agreement.

By virtue of the agreement the duty on automobiles imported from United States was bound at 17½ per cent for a period of three years from last Jan. 1, and the government undertakes to ask parliament to remove the three per cent excise tax on all commodities mentioned in the agreement.

From western members and free trade Liberals, including A. M. Young, Saskatoon, R. J. Deacham, Huron North, and Malcolm McLean, Melfort, came arguments for even less protection on this industry because of the resultant high cost of cars in Canada as compared with United States.

Following Mr. Dunning's statement, the committee adopted this particular item.

Three small companies had left Windsor, Mr. Dunning said, but not because of this agreement, as they left long before it was negotiated.

Dr. Young said the present tariff on cars amounted in effect to a 28 per cent protection, and he charged the dealers were taking full advantage of it. He said the Ford company, on an original investment of $125,000, had made profits of $20,000,000 in 20 years.

Orders By Air Mail

Being Received From Western Farmers For New Variety Of Wheat

Ottawa. Hundreds of orders are being received in every mail from western farmers for the new variety of rust-resistant wheat developed at Indian Head, Sask., experimental farm, agriculture department's said.

The new variety, formerly known as "No. 975," but recently named Regent, will shortly be distributed to farmers for use this summer, Hon. J. G. Gardner, agriculture minister, announced in the House of Commons.

Regent is not only resistant to stem rust but also to leaf rust and smut. It has been developed to the point where there are about 12,000 bushels available at western Canadian experimental farms. After orders are received here the wheat is shipped from the farms to the purchasers. Some farmers are using the airmail to get their orders in quickly.

For United Effort

Anthony Eden Calls Upon Industry And Man Power To Speed Up

London. — Anthony Eden called for a united effort of industry and manpower in Great Britain to back up the government's efforts to create a European anti-aggression front.

"This is no time for halfway measures," the former foreign secretary declared. "As conditions are today, every hour counts." Some of his hearers interpreted his appeal as one for compulsory service of men and industry alike in the country's cause.

Mr. Eden, addressing the Association of American Correspondents in London, reiterated his demand also for national unity to speed defense preparations against increasing aggression in Europe.

Spread Of Propaganda

Ottawa. Propaganda is being circulated in Canada, some of it seeming to express the view of foreign governments, Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, justice minister, told the House of Commons, and it might be necessary at some time to initiate a public inquiry as to source and financial backing of the propaganda organizations. One favorite method of propaganda was to abuse parliament and public men.

Musical Festival

Adjudicators Are Almost Human Says George Dodds

Winnipeg. — Adjudicators are almost human when we hear them who really show that "spark of promise," George Dodds, British adjudicator, told a Manitoba musical festival audience.

"We forgot to write remarks and just want to sit back and listen," he said.

He was commenting on the playing of Miss Elsie Jensen, young Winnipeg violinist, who won the intermediate solo competition with a total of 170 marks. "She had a real performer's spirit," said the adjudicator.

The festival lasts two weeks. There are 13,500 entrants competing in 150 classes.

Nations Join Britain And France In An Anti-Aggression Pact

London. — The Russian government agreed to join Great Britain and France in an anti-aggression pact, while Prime Minister Chamberlain was telling the House of Commons Britain is determined "by all means in our power" to block Reichsfuehrer Hitler's armed march through Europe.

Russia's acceptance of Britain's plan for the anti-aggression declaration left only Poland in doubt among the four major powers sought for the combination.

The prime minister's statement was the strongest he has yet made against Germany's new imperialism and coincided with Hitler's statement in Memel that he was nearing the end of "repairing the wrongs to us."

Mr. Chamberlain's statement in the House, reported to have been prepared with the concurrence of Clement Attlee and other Labor leaders, concerned two main points.

1. Britain has no desire "to stand in the way of any reasonable efforts on the part of Germany to expand her export trade."

2. Britain is not anxious to establish in Europe ideological blocs of countries "with different ideas about the forms of their internal administration."

The first point was taken to mean the government would not follow the United States action by imposing ing a tariff or other economic imposts against German goods. The second was believed to be meant as a reassuring statement toward Italy rather than Germany.

Mr. Chamberlain's reference to an ideological bloc of nations was interpreted as a move to moderate Premier Mussolini's speech when he may announce his Mediterranean claims against France.

If Il Duce can be persuaded Britain, France and Russia are not establishing a triple alliance waiting only to pounce on Germany and Italy when the right time comes, he may be less truculent in his language and less sweeping in his demands against France.

Sources close to the government said Mr. Chamberlain was attempting to tell Mussolini Britain is concerned only with resisting German aggression and is not seeking to set up an ideological bloc in competition with the Rome-Berlin axis.

Mr. Chamberlain told the house: "We are solely concerned here with the proposition that we can not submit to a procedure under which independent states are subjected to such pressure under threat of force as to be obliged to yield their independence."

"We are not anxious to establish in Europe ideological blocs of countries "with different ideas about the forms of their internal administration."

The first point was taken to mean the government would not follow the United States action by imposing

NOTES AND COMMENTS

INDIFFERENCE, a readiness to believe in short-cuts to prosperity, and a hope to get something for nothing always provides fertile soil for the propagandist.

THE freedom and privileges enjoyed under democratic government are regarded too lightly in this age. Our forefathers battled for this freedom, but in latter years this fact appears to be ignored by the masses, who through the wiles of self-seeking politicians scheming for self-aggrandizement, have been led to believe that the government of the country owes them a living.

THE result is that we have many who, not endowed in the first place with much moral and spiritual fortitude, are quite ready to regard themselves with self-pity, and to really believe that the world owes them a living.

TO feed "mush" to these weaklings, to be paid for by those who do toil and spin, we read of legislators in this province proposing to saddle the taxpayers with increased taxes to pay pensions to all at sixty years of age.
Of course, the monthly dividend is now a dead issue, but in its place our "aggressive" member for Rocky Mountain says in effect the Dominion government should provide the pensions. It is calculated it would cost the Canadian people $166,000,000, but this is a mere bagatelle to provincial legislators and others who so freely tell how to spend other people's money.

BUT those with weak back-bones swallow this "tosh" and kickshaw legislators throw out their chests in self-righteousness and proclaim they are fighting for the forgotten man—the underdog of society.

NOW you and I as taxpayers who earn our living by daily and persistent effort, not only provide for ourselves, but for others less fortunate,
of whom there are many deserving of consideration, and for the type known as the "won't works" who seize on every excuse to "swing the lead" and draw relief. And it is this latter class to whom a certain type of politician even toadies, in order that he may secure their votes to keep him on the job fighting for the so-called "underdog." If the country continues to develop more of this type, it undoubtedly will become a nation of subservient drudges bossed by the politicians, and personal liberty would eventually vanish. This would end our proud boast of democratic freedom.

CONDITIONS such as these have been gradually fastening on the people, and it is time we took stock of ourselves. Continued efforts have been and are being made to take from the people of Alberta the privileges they now possess. One could enumerate them at length, but it would take too much space.
One of the first attempts was to control the press, in order to still the voice of fair criticism.
Then there came the registration of all citizens who wanted to be given a dividend. Registration of tradesmen and craftsmen in all branches of industry, a license to follow an occupation in which you had been engaged since the province was formed.

and long before that, forbidden to make repairs along certain lines in your own home, these are but a few of the restrictions which have been attempted and which are being enforced. Enlarged school districts and centralized control is another example.

WERE THE press of this province controlled, The Journal would not be permitted to make this comment, and gradually the freedom of democratic government of and by the people would vanish. It is all very well to say this is taking an extreme view; but is it, when you consider what has already been done? Just remember the famous "Banker Toadies" pamphlet to remind you that similar methods of abuse and extermination would be attempted if the people and the Press remained indifferent. Lots of things can happen here, right in Alberta, and the pity is that so many do not realize the danger. So many do not think at all; they just think that they think. They are told that repudiation of contracts is honest, and are quite ready to believe it. When a people's moral integrity is shattered, then they are on the skids to perdition and slavery.

A VISITOR from a European country, observing from a trans-Canada train the vast expanses of the western prairies, and the ugly front streets of the towns
the train passed through, remarked on the contrast of the crowded condition of the counties back of the cities, and also, on the lack of beauty in the towns she hurriedly glimpsed. Of course, she did not know that a background of eight years of drought and grasshoppers had deprived people of the money to beautify their places. But it is a fact that most of our towns have "just grown up," with no regard for planning so that a more presentable front would meet the eye of the visitor. There is room for millions more in Canada, and the country will never attain the status it deserves until it has more population. We have two railroads capable of serving a hundred millions instead of eleven, and it would seem that a well-planned scheme of immigration would bring immense advantages to the Dominion. However, the growing pains of a young country are many, but it does appear that as long as we have such immense areas without population, we can never make the progress that such a naturally rich country has a right to.

SPRING brings sporting activities in keeping with the season. The more the young people, and the older, indulge in outdoor sports, the greater dividends in health and happiness will they receive.

WE are getting softer and softer. Now you can buy oysters in tablet form.—Brandon

Two elderly men at a club were discussing the table manners of a new member. "Well, what do you think of him?" asked one. "Very remarkable," replied the other, thoughtfully. "I've heard soap gargled and siphoned, but upon my word, that's the first time I've ever known it to be yodled."

Badminton Club Completes Season

Coleman badminton club wound up a very successful season on Tuesday evening with a supper at the Grand Union hotel.

The gents played hosts to the ladies for the evening. Badminton was played until 10 p.m. then the club repaired to the hotel to sit down to a delightful supper prepared by Mrs. Pruitt. The table was decorated with cut flowers, and a host of good things to eat. Mr. A. F. Short and Lt.-Col. R. F. Barnes spoke on the very successful season the club had enjoyed and congratulated the secretary and president.

Several pictures were taken during the evening that will recall a very pleasant affair to those who were present.

At the close Mrs. Claxton, Mrs. A. F. Short and Miss Jean McDonald were presented with bouquets of flowers for top scores during the evening's play.—Contributed.

Canadian whaling is all done off British Columbia. Two whaling stations are operated. The catch is used in the manufacture of meal, oil and fertilizer.

Fish contain relatively high percentages of complete proteins. That is what makes them nourishing. Vitamins, iodine and other mineral salts, as well as ease of digestion, make fish healthful.

CHAPTER VI. Continued

A man in the company's uniform came up to her, touching his cap. "Beg pardon! Is there anything we can do for you?" "Would you like a taxi?" "I mean, where are you going?"

"To San Jose; to Danavale." She turned round then, coming out of her abstraction, painfully aware, suddenly, of the curious throng. Her face flamed. She gathered up the blanket and shook it and tried to wrap it around her.

"We haven't another plane to-night."

"I must telephone my father," Sarah Lynn said. "Where?"

The bride ran after her and caught hold of her arm. "Say, listen, sister," she said in a high, sweet voice, "are you in a jam?"

"I'm quite all right," Sarah Lynn said softly.

"Well, is that nice? Throwing you out like a sack of mail? Is that a good old Norse custom?"

"I want to telephone—"

"Here—I'll show you!" She picked up her glistening train.

Sarah Lynn followed her. "Is this Fresno?"

"Well, for Pete's sake! Didn't you know where you were landing? Yes, this is Fresno, and here's your booth. I'll wait for you."

"Thank you," Sarah Lynn said coldly. "It's not necessary." She looked fully at her for the first time and saw the details of white satin and shiny violet rose blossoms. "I mustn't keep you from—"

"Oh, that's all right," she said easily. "It's just one of my weddin' angel. I'm drivin' this child to the hotel. Back in a fit." She flung long white gloved arms about him and gave him a paintaking cinema kiss. "No, of course I won't run out on you beautiful! You just stay here and play with your wooden soldiers and the first thing you know it'll be Christmas morning!"

The young man spoke to her in a low voice. "Hold everything for a sec', will you, Kit? I want to get the two of you together, with your train and her blanket. Boy, is this a wow or is this a wow?" He beckoned to a man with a camera who came swiftly forward. "All right, Mike; make it snappy."

The bride arranged her veil and settled the little lace cap, and thrust her arm through Sarah Lynn's. "Come along, babe! Well, will you look who's here!"

Sarah Lynn glanced up. There was a soft explosion, a dazzling flash.

"Slick!" the reporter said gleefully. "It's a known fact that people who smoke to death because oxygen has been completely cut off from their system are the ones who are most likely to die from a heart attack, bring if your blood lacks red corpuscles. assurance in the sound of her father's voice, thick, drowsy, amazed. "It's Sarah Lynn. I'm at Fresno, Fresno. F-r-e-s-n-o! Why, I flew down. Flew! With Gunnar Thorwald. What? I don't know where Duncan is. Oh, Dad, please—! I explain everything when I see you. How can I get home? I haven't any money." She was silent, listening. "Yes, at the Fresno airport. Shall I wait here? What? All right. Yes; the California hotel and ask for Mr. Pond. How soon can you get here? I'll Mother not to worry, please! I'm feeling all right. Yes—I understand—Mr. Pond, I'm strained, hoarse, warmed suddenly. "Oh, it was glorious—glorious!—yes. Good-bye!"

The young man came close to her, speaking with controlled excitement. "You're Miss Dana? From Danavale? I used to work on the news papers in San Jose. You flew down with Gunnar Thorwald? Well, of course you did," he grinned, "but what I mean is, weren't you going all the way to Glendale with him?"

"No," Sarah Lynn said briefly, aware now of the avid curiosity in his gimlet gaze.

"Isn't it a fact he vowed he'd never take a woman up in his ship?"

"Yes."

"And then he kidnaps you in a blanket and—"

"He did not," she defended him hotly. "It wasn't his fault—I mean, he didn't intend—" she stopped, confused.

"Why did he do such a thing? That I didn't ask him to set you down at Fresno?" But you didn't know it was Fresno, did you? I guess maybe it was a pretty wild party, wasn't it? Do you mind telling me just how—"

The bride put a protective arm about the forlorn, thin figure. "Lay off the interview, Beanie! Isn't it a girl's privilege to get out and walk home when she wants to? Probably the Great Dane got a little too primping and she—"

"No!" the girl said vehemently. "It wasn't his fault! I told you it wasn't his fault!" She walked away from them, her blanket spreading out behind her like a train, and spoke to the uniformed attendant.

"I want a taxi, please."

"Wait!" the bride ran after her. "It's a flock of cars here. I'll have somebody drive you. Look! I'll come with you myself!"

"You don't trouble," Sarah Lynn was rigid. "I want a taxi, please."

"No trouble, lambie! Hi, Larry!" she hailed the groom. "Listen,

The instant they were out of hearing the youth flung himself upon the telephone and shouted a curse. "Hello! Niek? Say; feller, just pin the ol' ears back and listen! What a story! Ready? Gunnar Thorwald, Norwegian ace, who has just blown the Atlantic, and who had taken a vow never to fly a woman in his ship, set the Hermod down at Fresno at 2:45 a.m. and unceremoniously landed Miss Sarah Dana, of the famous Danavale colony, exclusive suburb!" he gave a reviving breath and went on "or" San Jose, and I got to him. I brought him a bag in a formal and a blanket—plaid, yeah, b-l-a-n-k-e-t, standing like Kitty Medill, Wild Woman of the Air, Hollywood's stun-flyng foot and her nth bridgefoot!"

The big and beautiful lobby of the Hotel California was dimly lit and drowsy, the exquisite Regency cocktail room was asleep, but the man behind the desk was wide-awake and cordial.

"Why, hello, Miss Medill!" Then he laughed. "Beg pardon! I mean, Mrs. Van Dalton!"

"Old stuff, big boy. Don't you ever read the papers? Sure, I'm an old-timer." He checked the grooming out of the window. "I brought you out to see the sights. This is the most beautiful place in the world."

They were in a casual, comfortable Sarah Lynn stayed on and on, listening while they talked to each other. She walked home in the dusk with her greyhound pacing demurely beside her.

She found the old governess reading ardently, with four library books opened about her.

"I'm just reflecting my mind a bit on Norse history and legend, my dear," she greeted her charge, lifting pale, protuberant eyes. "I was rather rusty, so to speak. Quite

Fairhurst Wins The Cigars
Mr. James Fairhurst is the only one who remembered the name of the speaker whose words, (an extract from a report of a public meeting in Coleman on May 26, 1937) were quoted in The Journal two weeks ago. It was J. S. Woodsworth, now M.P. for a Winnipeg constituency. It serves to show how short-lived in the public mind are men and their words.

Columbus' discovery of the New World was a great achievement, yet we have so many qualities. To dare in small, poor ships to prove that the world was round and not a tableland ending in a frightful waterfall. To dare it and force others to dare it with him. That was royal faith, rich in individual courage; unselfish in the desire to bring glory and honor to his beloved land of Castle. What qualities guide you on the voyage of life? The high and generous things of the spirit are the elements of self-protection and self-interest? Is your goal an island of comfort, ease for yourself, or a new land of love and light where others may have larger opportunities to live?—Exch.

Advertisers who value the typographical appearance and reader appeal of their advertisements always use The Journal, the weekly newspaper that is read far and wide, from cover to cover, and is read beyond the boundaries of the city and further afield. It is local reader interest and the printing of worth-while news that makes it a valuable advertising medium which no enterprising retailer can afford to overlook.
